Trio of Musicians Appear in Noteworthy Recital as Methodist Benefit

The Swiss Bell Ringers, composed of Prof. George, his wife and daughter, appeared in a recital at the Methodist Episcopal church Friday night under the auspices of the Ladies' League of the church and pleased a fairly large crowd. A program of classical and popular numbers was rendered. Among the best numbers and the numbers most enjoyed were the Sextet from Lucia and Brahms' Dance No. 5.

The trio appeared to be at home on any instrument. An arrangement of the harp, cello and violin was especially well enjoyed. They played instruments, such as the xylophone, aluminum tubes, and music chimes.

MEMORIAL MONEY IS RECEIVED

Sunday School Classes Assist in Securing Funds

FOR REV. MONINGER

Two Sunday school classes of the First Christian church of Charleoi, have by special effort made substantial donations to what is called the Moninger memorial fund, a project that is being financed by the Christian churches of the country. The first of these was a penny social Tuesday evening, given by the Star class of girls, of which Mrs. Elizabeth Al-free is teacher. The girls worked faithfully and by their efforts realized $7 for the fund.

Friday evening the Champion Warriors boys' class of which Mrs. J. K. Mitchell is the teacher gave an ice cream social at the church, which was well attended. The boys did the serving in a most efficient manner, and realized over $20 for the Moninger fund. During the evening a program was rendered, which opened with the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers," followed by prayer. A duet was rendered by William Fletcher and Thomas Patterson, followed by readings by Esther Wyatt, a violin solo by James Reid, singing by the class, games, etc. Both socials were most enjoyable events.

REVIVAL COMES TO A CLOSE AT BAPTIST CHURCH

Revival services in progress at the First Baptist church for two weeks were closed Friday night, when Rev. Herbert Agate preached a sermon on Christian living and neglect. He argued that many people realized the truth concerning Christianity and yet through neglect failed to live as they should. Such people he said are in danger.

A special feature of the meeting were trombone solos by J. F. Wein-nour of Rochester, N. Y. Mr. Win-nour is a trombonist of ability, a former theatre player and a former member of a large orchestra. He is to play again on Sunday morning at the church services.

TO SHOW VIVID WAR PICTURE

"The Knights of Rhodes" is a great four part spectacular drama booked by Manager R. S. Coyle for the Coyle Theatre Monday. This film is produced by the makers of "Satan," the Ambrosio company of Turin, Italy. It is a truly marvelous production, full of exciting incidents and introduces one of the biggest battle scenes ever played for moving pictures. The incidents of the picture are laid in the early part of the sixteenth century, when the Moslem power threatened to overrun all of Christendom. At that time the Island of Rhodes was occupied by a Christian band of noblemen known as the Knights of Rhodes. The conflict was between the Cross and the Crescent and a thrilling romance gives color to the historical events that helped to turn the tide of Moslem invasion.

FIGHTS TOLD OF IN NEWS

Copy of First Charleoi Newspaper Interesting Publication

WAS PRINTED IN 1891

The Charleoi News is the name of the first newspaper published in Charleoi. Few of the original copies of this publication are in existence, but Carl M. Wetz has one copy the twenty-fifth, that was issued. Those were the days when Charleoi was wild and woolly and the News of date of Saturday, May 20, 1891, is filled with details of fights and gun play. The three chief headlines are: "She Raised Cain—A Notorious Woman Creates a 'Circus' at a Show;" "I'm a Coming"—So Said Brother Robinson, and This Tells How He Came;" and "He Meant Murder—Narrow Escape from Death at the Hands of an Assassin."

The paper is well printed and contains much local news of that early date. Names of men either dead or having been almost forgotten and who were connected with the early development of the community are mentioned in the News' columns. Following are two short items that show the trends of the early days: "Charleoi must be getting to be quite metropolitan, when she has all in one week a patent medicine, teeth-pulling, all-curing tent show and brass band parade, and a floating photograph gallery, where you can get 'took' with the roaring man-of-war Sam Roberts thrown in as a background."

ATTENDS AUTO BANQUET

Is Honored Guest at Wilkinsburg Club Function Held in Pittsburg

Governor J. K. Tener attended a banquet of the Wilkinsburg Automobile Club at the Rittenhouse in Pittsburg Friday night, which was a preliminary to the opening of the Auto Exposition in Pittsburg this evening. As the auto is synonymous with good roads, the governor spoke on that subject, and incidentally told what the state is doing and has done in the great project of reconstructing and maintaining the roads of the commonwealth. He said in part:

"Not until a meeting of the Legislature two years ago, was there evidenced by the people generally and the members of the State law-making body, a determination to have constructed a comprehensive State-wide road system, which roads were to connect all of the county seats of the State by one or more routes and comprising more than 8,000 miles—all to be built and ever after maintained at the expense of the State. A bill carrying these provisions became a law at that session and there was also prepared and favored in its first passage an amendment to our Constitution to permit the issuance of $50,000,000 worth of bonds as a State debt, for the purpose of carrying forward this work."

"In 1911, when the duty devolved upon your Governor to appoint one who should direct the affairs and important duties of the office of Highway Commissioner, he was not beset by conflicting opinions as to whom he should appoint; for having personal knowledge and tangible evidence under his own eye, as well as being further guided by the almost unanimous voice of those throughout our State who were familiar with road building and road builders, one name, and one only, stood out prominently as the man for the place and that man was Edward M. Bigelow, of Pittsburg. And because of the splendid record he has made, the evidence he has given of his ability and sure grasp upon all the important work, as well as the details of his office, the people were fortunate indeed to be able to command for the State his continued services."

"The proposition to provide means to carry on this great work through the issuance of State bonds is no new proposition in finance. In fact it is accepted as the very best method of raising money for immediate use in such amounts as may be spent with judicious economy, and it is right and proper as well that since the proceeds of these bonds shall be spent for roads for future generations to enjoy, that those who come after us should share with the present generation the burden of the cost. However, while the bonds eventually must be paid for, no realty tax need

CHEESE-PARING.

No citizen of the commonwealth should give serious consideration to the attempts made to discredit the state highway department by pointing to the amounts expended for the preliminary work and surveys, and charging that they were excessive and to a large extent unnecessary. The project to take over, reconstruct and maintain 8,000 miles of highway is a gigantic proposition, and involves big expenditures and big engineering projects. Because the project is confined within the state of Pennsylvania few people have taken heed of its magnitude. A few general comparisons are convincing.

In the first place, 8,000 miles of highway are equivalent in length to two railroad lines from New York to San Francisco, with enough left over to cover the distance, possibly from the Canadian line to the Mexican border. A project to build two improved lines of road east and west from ocean to ocean and one north and south from Canada to Mexico, would appear so gigantic a project to the people of the United States that it would fairly make them gasp with amazement, and any cost that might be estimated would be taken as a matter of course. No one would question that the preliminary surveys would cost immense sums, and that it was unavoidable and necessary.

This is the comparison to make in the improvement of the state roads. While the old roads are followed to large extent, the most of these were never laid out on scientific or efficient principles. They were the old trails and cow paths, without regard to direct routes or grades and the most of these have to be changed and reconstructed to make them practicable and efficient. These are some of the things to think about when one puts up a "holter" that building 8,000 miles of road will cost big money. Of course it will. But Pennsylvania is a big state, big in resources, big in interests and still bigger in future developments. It is fully able to stand the cost which will be one of the greatest projects of public utility ever undertaken by a commonwealth of the union.

ALFALFA.

At some of the farmers' institutes that are being held in the county at the present time it has developed that some of the farmers in the central part of the county are successfully raising alfalfa. This is a most profitable forage crop and where it is successfully grown it adds tremendously to the profits and success of stock raising. In Kansas, it is stated, that alfalfa as a crop is called the "mortgage raiser," as through its means thousands of the farmers who were heavily indebted during the lean harvest years preceding the panic of '93 were enabled to raise their mortgages. And yet there was a time when it was believed that alfalfa was a semi-tropical crop and could not be grown in Kansas.

It has now been demonstrated that alfalfa can be successfully grown in all of the eastern and middle states. It requires peculiar and scientific treatment of the soil and when this has been mastered the rest is comparatively easy. The State agricultural officials and the faculty of State College are ready at all times to assist the farmers of the state in the way of information and analysis of the soil, and it is surprising that more farmers of Washington county do not take advantage of the opportunity in the way of producing alfalfa. It is a money getter.

A FEW FOWL TIPS

The incubator has many advantages over old "biddy." Persons who succeed in rearing from 100 to 200 chicks yearly under the ordinary farm conditions could rear twice the number with half the labor if they used incubators. Some think it takes an expert and a couple of hours every day to successfully run an incubator but such is not the case.

I figure that it takes me on average of 15 minutes daily (five night and morning to turn the eggs and five at night to fix the lamps) to care for two machines having a hatching capacity of 170 eggs each, writes a Farm and Home contributor. It requires but little longer to look after two machines with double the capacity. To hatch 340 eggs by hens would require about 25 hens and allowing one minute to look over each hen night and morning there is nearly an hour spent each day, besides the cost of feed which would far exceed the cost of the incubator.

In selecting a machine patronize a reliable company and choose the size best needed to your wants. This depends upon the number of chicks you wish to raise but a convenient size for small breeders is one for 200 eggs. Incubators with less capacity, after the fertile eggs are removed and others fail to hatch, leave an unsatisfactory number. A machine of more than 200-egg capacity could not be readily supplied by the ordinary farm flock as eggs should not be over a week old when placed in the incubator.

Hen's Place on the Farm.

Specialized poultry farms are becoming more numerous each year. In many cases these are paying good returns on the money invested, but their effect on the supply of eggs and dressed poultry for our large markets is but as a drop in the ocean. It is for the small flocks of 50 to 300 fowls kept upon the farms as a side line that we must depend for our supply of poultry products in the future as in the past, says Prof. P. G. Holden in Farm and Home Poultry Annual. No other branch of agriculture is represented on so many farms. The census for 1910 shows that 88 per cent of all farms reported keeping poultry.

In no case can the business be made so profitable as where it is conducted as a side line of general farming. It is possible to allow chickens to range through many crops that are grown on the farm without damage to the crops and by such practice secure double returns from the same piece of land.

Orchards or cornfields are ideal for this purpose and the presence of the chickens in them is beneficial rather than detrimental, as they will destroy large numbers of insects injurious to the crops. The movable colony house, which is rapidly coming into general use on the farm makes it possible to scatter the chickens out over the fields. This method is especially valuable for handling the young stock as it gives freedom to the birds. The result will be stronger, more vigorous birds. By moving the house close to the fields where small grains have been harvested the birds are able to turn into profitable gains the shelled grain and scattered heads which remain on the field.

The production of eggs on the farm is always more profitable than the production of market poultry. Less equipment is necessary to carry on the business and the product is ready for market as soon as produced. If the greatest profits are to be secured from the business some attention must be given to the proper selection feeding and care of the poultry. The produce should be ready for the market when the prices are highest.

Keeping Eggs for Hatching

When trying to solve some of the annual causes of eggs not hatching the question of keeping them previous to the time of incubation is often brought up. In 1908 a Farm and Home writer carried on an experiment at Cornell university on this phase, and the following were the results:

Six lots of 50 eggs each were kept one, seven, 14, 21, 28 and 35 days, respectively, in a suitable place and hatched in a supposedly proper manner. The fertility and hatchability of the eggs were in proportion to the number of days kept. The longer the eggs were kept the poorer they hatched, running from 86 per cent for fresh eggs to 8 per cent for those 35 days old.

Three lots of 50 eggs each were kept 14 days. One lot was packed in bran, one in an ordinary egg case and one in a rotary egg holder, allowing free circulation of air, and plenty of light. This last lot was by far the best. The eggs in bran did next best.

Should Eggs Be Turned, and How? Those turned every day did the best, hatching 21 per cent more chicks than those not turned at all.

Three lots of 50 eggs were placed on the side, little or large end, for 14 days. Every day the cases were turned over for five minutes and then placed in the original positions. The fertility proved practically the same, and the hatchability of the eggs kept on the large end was 8 per cent better than either of the others, which produced exactly the same results.

Three lots of 50 eggs each were kept two weeks in an average temperature of 80 in an average temperature 65, and 50 degrees. The percentage of the fertility ran 24, 88 and 90 and the hatch was 0, 43 and 70 per cent from the different lots. This seems to clearly indicate the necessity of keeping a room for eggs at least as low as 50 degrees in temperature.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Here is a case of the worm turning. A minister at Monessen who has been utilizing the columns of the Independent to spread extracts from some of his sermons, gets "peaved" because of some errors that crept in and roasts Editor Fore and his paper from the pulpit. Editor Fore comes back at the reverend gentleman, and tells the people if they could see the "rotten" copy turned in by the minister and could know of the valuable time expended in editing the minister's copy by eliminating orthographical bone spavins and making him say what he intended to say but didn't, they would wonder that the published extracts could be whipped into readable shape at all.

"Because of a supposed error which he alleges" appeared in his church announcement, Rev. Bungard pastor of the U. B. church, publicly, in something like a brain storm, assailed this paper from his pulpit," says Editor Fore in the Independent in reply. "Far be it from us to make an intentional error and if Mr. Bungard had made his complaint known and acted the part of a gentleman instead of an acrobat a vaudeville artist, he might have fared better, and might have won more respect from his hearers.

"If that same congregation that heard Mr. Bungard condemn this paper, could see some of the copy brought to this office for publication, there would be no question as to why an occasional mistake might occur. If the people who heard us condemned from the public pulpit by a man supposed to be a servant of God, knew that the same editor who was painted by the pastor as an agent of the devil, had spent as high as forty minutes each day to get Mr. Bungard's sermon, or that of his evangelist in shape for the compositor and if they knew that the paper was sometimes held back as much as half an hour past issue time in order that the sermon might be cared for, they would not sympathize with the young minister who took advantage of a small error to give vent to his feelings. If this congregation could see the copy that was sent to this office that same day, there would be no blame attached to the paper. We wish it to be considered purely a matter of self defense that this article

AMONG THE THEATRES

THE PALACE—CHARLEROI

A most enjoyable vaudeville bill opened at the Palace Theatre Thursday, and will continue the rest of the week. With a trio, a team and a musical act, each a leading feature, a most creditable bill is presented. "Fathier's Blunder," which is presented by the trio, Boyd, Hayes and Boyd, is a most delightful comedy. It represents an irascible old father who wants his daughter to marry a wealthy physician who is abroad, but the girl is in love with an impecunious young story writer. The latter resembles the doctor, whom the father knows, and when he calls is mistaken for the millionaire and encouraged in his suit. The young couple slip out and get married and the father proves to be a game old sport and gives his blessing. The two Seymours give some entertaining impersonations, sketches and dances. Miss Seymour, in some most fetching gowns, impersonates Anna Held and other notables, while Seymour gives some exhibitions of clever dancing. Their team work is also funny and entertaining. Fritz Christian, as a tramp musician is surely a master on the violin, and he had to respond to repeated encores. The regular three reel service of photo plays was presented. This is changed nightly and a matinee will be given Saturday afternoon.

THE COYLE—CHARLEROI

A most excellent repertoire of photoplays characterized the showing at the Coyle Theatre this week with a good week end program for Saturday. One of the special features of the week was a two reel Bison Tuesday, entitled "Mona of the Modoc war," in which the Oregon tribe of that name, years ago, in the early seventies, under the leadership of Capt. Jack successfully held at bay for a time the United States army sent to dislodge them from their stronghold in the Lava Beds. There was also a lot of comedy—"A Spicy Time," "One on Auntie," "Billy's Board Bill," and "Fatty and the Bandits." The special feature, however, was "The Traitor," a German film produced in Berlin which told a sensational story of love and intrigue. The leading feminine role in this is taken by a noted German actress who goes by the title of the "Bernhardt of Germany." Her acting is strong and intensely tragic. "The Love Chase" was an Eclair showing in two reels that was a most excellent feature. Among the leading dramas were "The Branded Sin Shooter," and "At Midnight." Saturday's bill includes "The Marriage Lottery" and "A Frontier Mystery," the latter a two reel Bison.

THE STAR—CHARLEROI

That the Star is a good place to go every day was demonstrated by the program of special features this week. One of the most striking of these was "Dr. Gar-El-Hama, or the Daredevil Criminal," in three parts. This was a most sensational exposition of what lengths a daring criminal will go to pursue his unlawful calling, and the moral shown is that the same amount of energy and a daring employed in legitimate business would achieve success with no personal risk. "In the Ranks" is another of the big spectacular Bronco features in two parts. Among other good dramas were "A Guilty Conscience," "Saving Mamie's Dad," and "A Double Wedding." "Madam X," the reproduction of the striking play of that name, and "The Strong Dramas. Comedy was also a prominent feature during the week, and the dramas and travel pictures added greatly to the repertoire. Monday Manager Cowan presents "The Paymaster's Son," one of those big thrilling Kay Bees in two reels. The Star's matinees from 1 to 4 o'clock each day are greatly appreciated by women shoppers and busy mothers who find it hard to get out evenings.

THE ALVIN—PITTSBURG

"Little Boy Blue," Henry W. Savage's long heralded sensational musical success with its company of 100 people, 25 principals, beauty chorus of 75 and a specially augmented company orchestra will be on view at the Alvin Theatre next week commencing Monday, March 3. Briefly, "Little Boy Blue" is a romantic relation with many humorous sleights and musical incidentals of the finding of the lost heir to a Scottish fortune. Estates and a title to say nothing of the four cornered love affairs. Oddly enough the plot is laid in Paris. A little waif turns out to be the half sister to the missing heir. She and an impecunious French Marquis are in love with each other but she spurns him upon learning that he, for the sake of his creditors, has agreed to wed another for a cash consideration. It is the girl whom the Marquis is ready to marry because of her wealth, who is about to receive the legacy long unclaimed, and which rightfully belongs to the little waif's half brother, who ignorant of his good fortune is living in a distant land. The little waitress dons boys clothing at the suggestion of a Seeress and a detective and impersonates her half brother who is the last of a long line of Earls, one of whom the great Gainsborough immortalized in his famous painting, "Little Boy Blue." The proof of relationship lies in a birthmark on the left shoulder blade, and it is while putting the little feminine conspirator to the vital test that she is forced to confess that she is "only a girl." Her Scottish uncle is heartbroken at the deception and he is about to wreak vengeance upon the person of Dupont the detective when the real heir himself arrives upon the scene restoring peace and happiness, giving his sister's hand to the Marquis and permitting his heiress cousin to marry the man of her choice.

With only a single important exception Mr. Savage promises to bring the original cast. It is headed by Otis Harlan the comedian who was so long the main stay of "Baby Mine" and "A Broken Idol" who has found in the role of the fat and funny detective a part greatly to his talents and liking. Others who appeared in New York and who will be seen are Maud Odell, John Dunsmore, Lottie Engel, Franklin Farnum, Kathryn Stevenson and Roland Hogue. There is a galaxy of half a hundred really pretty girls in the company as well as a number of handsome boys, combining to make a singing chorus of unusual volume and quality. Another feature is a special orchestra of Grand Opera proportions which is carried by the company.

THE GRAND—PITTSBURG

The inaugural appearance in vaudeville in Pittsburgh of Miss Kathryn Kidder takes place at the Grand next Monday afternoon, where, for one week, this distinguished legitimate actress will head a program of refined, international attractions. Miss Kidder and her players come to us under the direction of Mr. Julius Steger and will play her famous creation of the Victorian Sardou character, Madame Sans Gene, in a new playlet entitled "The Washerwoman Duchess." She will be supported by a notable cast including Walter Wilson John Marchand and Mitchell Harris. In making "Madame Sans Gene" over into a one act comedy, Miss Kidder has created a new organic play dealing with the domestic side of Napoleon Bonaparte, his favorite field Marshall, and the woman who became a duchess.

A particular novelty of the program next week will be the exhibition of deep sea pearl diving by the Three Travilla Brothers and their wonderful Diving Seal. The Travillas perform in a huge crystal tank. They are the world's champion under water swimmers and divers and their seal is the only animal that has ever been taught to dive as man dives for precious gems that lie beneath the water. Herr Conchas, assisted by Julius Neuman, presents what he is pleased to term a classic Intermzzo entitled "Achilles and Patroclus." In this Conchas will show his tremendous physical prowess in the handling of huge projectiles, field ordinance and other heavy implements of war. The great thrill of his performance is the incident where he catches Krupp shells on the nape of the neck shot at him from a catapult fifty feet above the stage.

Signor Deiro, master of the piano accordion will play the instrument he has glorified. Deiro is a virtuoso who has made the accordion capable of interpreting the best of classic music. Linden Beckwith, the pretty and sweet-voiced prima donna soprano, formerly of "The Midnight Sons," will sing a group of popular songs. She brings to her rendition "Mexico," "Kiss Me Again," "Ragtime Goblin Man," etc. With the spontaneity and unctious that is the hallmark of real genius, Raymond and Caverley, wizards of joy, will introduce new pleasantries and sidewalk patter in German dialect. Billy McDermott, advertised as the "only survivor of Cony's Army," is a tramp comedian whose debut here next week will likely be punctuated with laughs of the heartiest kind. Besides other specialties, Mr. Davis will present a new motion picture drama by the fascinating Kinemacolor process.

IN SUCH PAIN WOMAN TORE HER CLOTHES

Testifies She Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Malone, N. Y. — "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has certainly done me a lot of good. I first heard of it when I was a girl and I always said that if I ever had female trouble I would take it. "I suffered from organic inflammation and would have spells when I would be in such pain that I would tear my clothes. One day my husband got the neighbors in to see what the matter was but they could not help me. My first thought was for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I sent my husband out for it and took it until I was entirely cured. I am a woman of perfect health and my health and happiness came from Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine. You may rest assured that I do all I can to recommend your wonderful medicine to my friends." — Mrs. FRANK STONE, Route No. 3, Malone, N. Y.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, or nervous prostration. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

Father of his Country

A young man of the 18th century saved his country and became "first in peace, first in war and first in the hearts of his countrymen"—and gained the title of "Father of his Country." The young man of today who saves a goodly portion of his earnings will be the one to command first place in his community—and he won't need to make nearly as great a sacrifice as did Washington.
